

Table of Contents

Kamila Kamińska PhD: Introduction. Conflict as a learning opportunity . . . 7

Part I. Conflict — General aspects

Inese Jurgena PhD prof.: The Essence of conflict and possibilities for its pedagogic solution . . . . . 17

Kamila Kamińska PhD: The role of conflict in transformative learning theory context—The Northern Ireland case . . . . . 25

Katarzyna Gajek PhD: Cross-cultural learning in contemporary organizations as a key element of its success . . . . . 37

Part II. Cross-cultural learning

Vratislava Černíková Doc. PhD: Multicultural Policy of the Czech Republic. The Roma context . . . . . 55

Mirosława Cylkowska-Nowak, Witold Nowak: Moral panic around ethnic minorities . . . . . 65

Ondřej Lochman PhD, Katarzyna Szajda MA: The image of neighbour in Polish–German–Czech borderlines: Pupils’ attitudes towards the Other . . . . . 81

Magdalena Siuta PhD: Cross-cultural education in the area of potential conflict. Program PLUS at Macquarie University in Sydney and implications for Polish universities (the example of Wrocław University of Technology) . . . . . 101

Part III. Praxis of the conflict theory

Renata Bibik PhD: The importance of conflict in teacher burn out syndrome 113

Barbara Jezierska PhD: A rehabilitation institution as an attempt to solve conflict between an individual and the society. . . . . 131

Arkadiusz Urbanek PhD: The experience of conflict in prison . . . . . 141

Magdalena Malińska MA: Identity development and cognitive dissonance theory: Youth suffering from obesity in pop culture times . . . . . 155

Stephen Vertigans PhD: The Pre Roots of post 1960s Western Terror groups: Lessons from deep history . . . . . 169

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Mariusz Gaj MA: Schools of social behavior in India: The role of education in emancipation . . . . .	183
Kamila Kamińska PhD: Conclusions. Towards opportunities for change . . . .	193
Notes on Contributors . . . . .	195